

METRO ATLANTA EQUITY ATLAS

What is it?

The Atlas is a regional mapping project which tells a comprehensive story of the current state of the metro region across eight focus areas: demographics, economic development, education, environment, health, housing, public safety and transportation

Who is it for?

We developed the Atlas with non-profit practitioners and community leaders in mind. With that said, the data and analysis will be available to everyone. It is vitally important that those engaged in social change work have information at hand to effectively “make the case” about the most pressing challenges and opportunities within their communities. The Metro Atlanta Equity Atlas will help them do that.

How do I use it?

The Atlas will take two forms – a report and an interactive website. Each will be organized by focus area, which will allow the user to click or flip to the issue that matters to them to see how their county or community fairs. It’s that simple. There’s no map-making or data-crunching. It’s already been done to ensure a stress-free user experience.

When will it be ready?

The Atlas is launching July 2013. We’ll be providing updates along the way and opportunities for you to remain engaged. Stay tuned!

Partner Organizations

Atlanta Regional Commission, Annie E. Casey Foundation Atlanta Civic Site, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Emory’s Center for Community Partnerships, Emory University Initiative for Race and Difference, Enterprise Community Partners, Federal Reserve Bank, Georgia Department of Public Health, Georgia Tech Community Affairs Office, Georgia STAND-UP, G STAND, Latin American Association, Mercer University, Morehouse School of Medicine, Neighborhood Nexus, Nexus Research Group, The Center for Working Families, Inc.

Special Thanks to our Sponsors

